Here are 70+ printable pages to help you create a stylish personal recipe binder with divider pages by food categories, conversion charts, pretty recipe cards, meal planning pages and a super helpful grocery list organized by food types and grocery store sections, and more!

Supplies:

Clear View 3 Ring Binder (you choose which size; clear view binders have the clear plastic covers so you can customize them with inserts on the front and back and spine)

Sheet Protectors with Tabs for all of the divider/category pages

Regular Sheet Protectors (no tabs) for binders for all of your individual recipes

The PDF 's Order of Pages:

- 9 Different color binder covers
- 42 Recipe category dividers
- Filled in grocery shopping list divided into areas to check mark what you need
- Blank grocery shopping list divided into areas in the store
- Measurement cheat sheet
- Kitchen measurement conversions

cont...

- 2 Styles of recipe cards
- 1 Week of all meals planner
- 2 Styles of dinner menu planners
- Recipe amount conversions
- Freezer inventory list
- 10 Pages of binder spines in different colors

Instructions:

Collect all of your printed (or otherwise) recipes

Print which binder cover you'd like to use as well as the spine, and insert into the binder

Sort your recipes by:

Appetizers
Beef
Beverages
Breakfast
Bread
Cake
Candy
Chocolate
Cookies
Casseroles
Crockpot
Fish
Frozen Treats
Holidays
Miscellaneous
Pastries
Pie
Pork

cont...

Poultry
Salads
Soup
Vegetables

4. After sorting, doing one category at a time, slip each recipe into a plain sheet protector. Once you're done with all of your categories it's time to assemble your binder by inserting your sorted recipes behind each category page. Now, I have the categories in alphabetical order, but you can group the pages by all desserts, proteins, dinners etc., or however you like!
